Developer faces fraud, theft, forgery charges

ENJOYING LOCAL OFFERINGS--John Flynn Jr. generally avoided being photographed during his stay in Bethel, but he did turn up in a television commercial for RheaLu's China Gem.

Most of the current charges against John P. Flynn Jr. stem from Bethel-area business deals gone sour.

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel developer John P. Flynn Jr.--who was convicted in 1983 for taking part in the largest white collar crime in New Hampshire's history (see box)--was arrested again last week by U.S. Marshalls.

The marshalls, who were leaving the Big Apple Wednesday after buying coffee, confronted Flynn when he stopped by chance to make a call from the pay phone there.

Flynn, 47, is currently being held in the Hillsborough County Jail in Manchester, N.H., pending appointment of an attorney and a preliminary hearing on alleged probation violation charges.

A federal judge last week denied Flynn bail until a preliminary hearing is held, probably within the coming week.

If the allegations are upheld, Flynn faces the prospect of being returned to prison for up to five years, perhaps longer, according to Thomas Tarr, chief U.S. probation officer for the District of New Hampshire.

The charges against Flynn are based on a range of accusations of fraud, forgery, and theft by deception--most stemming from Bethel area business deals gone bad.

Flynn is also being charged with threatening to shoot Sandy MacGregor, one of his partners in the Mayville Tavern.

Since at least August of 1988, when he was released on probation from a federal half-way house, Flynn has been involved in a number of business deals in the Bethel area--most of them in the Bridge Street/Mayville area. In fact, his activity in the Bethel area appears to have predated his release from the half-way house.

In addition to managing the now-closed Mayville Tavern, Flynn has acted as an agent for the as-yet-unopened Bethel & Bag shop, and he represented RheaLu's China Gem in discussions with town officials and in a dispute with an abutter.

The arrest warrant also charges that Flynn used the Rostay Inn to commit wire fraud.

Most of the business people who were involved with Flynn here say they were initially unaware of his New Hampshire conviction; some say they plan to testify against him at his upcoming probation hearing.

Local losses high

According to the arrest warrant, Flynn was responsible for more than $160,000 in losses for the partners who formed the Mayville. Most of the partners were his fellow ski patrollers at Sunday River.

In addition, the restaurant owes $14,000 in withholding taxes and another $14,000 in sales taxes, according to the warrant. (For a fuller description of Flynn's alleged activities here, see the warrant excerpts on page 2.)

Flynn's financial maneuvers resulted in the failure of the restaurant, according to Dr. Gary Galovic, an oral surgeon from Portsmouth, NH and one of the partners.

Galovic said the property's owners, Richard and Suzanne Grant, have taken back the house and land, along with the improvements made to the old barn when it was converted to a restaurant.

The Grants are reportedly seeking to reopen restaurant under new management, but attempts to reach them for confirmation were unsuccessful.

Sandy MacGregor and Galovic were the most active partners in the tavern. MacGregor told The Citizen that the shooting threat came when he attempted to gather evidence to have Flynn removed from the business and the attached residence.

"He took me seriously, and I took his threat seriously," MacGregor said.

Galovic said the partners have discussed legal action against Flynn, but ruled it out as too costly. He said they will press Key Bank to recover funds from checks illegally signed by Flynn and an associate.

In addition to using the checks to defraud the partners, the warrant claims, Flynn used them to launder money "illegally obtained from other frauds."

In 1983 Flynn was convicted in massive NH swindle

Just over 10 years ago, John P. Flynn Jr. was convicted for taking part in what was at the time the largest white-collar crime in New Hampshire history.

The crimes involved were similar in type, if not in scale, to Flynn's alleged activities in the Bethel area. The charges stemmed from the 1980 collapse of the so-called Stewart Meyers real estate investment pyramid. The collapse cost 279 investors in 14 limited partnerships $6.4 million.

Flynn, then a lawyer and part-time special judge in New Hampshire, was one of several attorneys for the firm.

According to press accounts of Flynn's trial, most of the charges against him stemmed from his use of clients' funds for his own purposes or to cover shortages in his own or his company's accounts. The crimes included taking a $52,300 check intended as a down payment on a client's home and using it to cover shortage in his personal account. The fund shifting eventually involved a series of clients' accounts.

"Except when he robbed to pay himself, he repeatedly robbed Peter to pay Paul," argued the prosecutor.

Flynn offered no defense, and in 1983 he pleaded guilty to conspiracy and mail fraud charges. He was sentenced to a six-to-15-year jail term for conviction on 11 state theft charges. He was also sentenced to a concurrent five-year federal term. A second five-year federal term was suspended, and in 1988 he was released on probation.

Flynn's role in the overall Stewart Meyer scandal was considered small, but one of the charges in the new arrest warrant is that last winter he left the judicial district without permission in order to associate with James Meyers--a partner in Stewart Meyers. The warrant described Meyers as a convicted felon and past co-conspirator with Flynn.

Flynn recently told his probation officer that he had found a new job, with T.N. Marketing of Glen, N.H., which markets vacation ownership. The firm's 1993 annual report lists James Meyers as its treasurer.

Newry Powder Ridge must renew site, condo permits

By WENDY HANSCOM

Newry planners ruled last week that the town's largest subdivision is not substantially complete, and its developers must apply for application renewal.

In 1990 Glover Development Corp of Bethel received three-year approval from the Planning Board for 99 residential lots and the construction of 99 condominiums at Powder Ridge.

The development received approval under the town's previous site plan ordinance, which allows for a one-year renewal of the permit if the project is determined to be substantially complete.

Board Chairman Don Sandstrom said officials at the Maine Municipal Association told him the conditions of Glover's renewal should be under the town's old ordinance. But any additional construction at the site must meet the town's new guidelines, he said.

Under the old ordinance the renewal would not have been necessary if the planning board had considered the project "substantially complete."

Sandstrom told the board that the ordinance gave no specific definition of what determined whether or not a project was substantially complete.

John Terrell of Glover Development told the planners that 54 percent of the road system is in place, 26 of the houselots have been sold and 16 condominium units are built.

The board unanimously voted that the subdivision was not substantially complete.

Glover representatives had originally said because they had "vested rights," or had invested enough resources (money) in the project it was unnecessary to apply for renewal of the subdivision and site plan.

But Sandstrom told the board and the Glover representatives last week that the only way to settle the issue of vested rights would be through the legal process "and I want to avoid that like the plague."

Glover representatives agreed that they too would like to stay out of court and agreed to go through the renewal process.

Road, pond concerns addressed

When Glover first submitted an application in June for renewal, the board expressed concern regarding a "blind hill" in the development's Douglass Road and access to a fire pond on the site.

Fire Chief Virgil "Tink" Cor-knight said last week that a dry hydrant has been put in near the fire

New doctors join BAHC

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Bethel Area Health Center has hired two new doctors, both osteopaths.

The new doctors replace Dr. Daniel Donnelly, who left the health center in July to join a family practice in Burlington, Vt.

On Aug. 2, Richard J. DeCarolis, D.O. and T. Kevin Finley, D.O. joined Physician's Assistant Jan Whitworth in providing medical care at the center.

Both doctors are graduates of the University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine and recently completed their residency at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Utica, N.Y.

DeCarolis is a Portland native, who along with his wife, Karen, and eight-month-old daughter, Emily, now lives in West Bethel.

"We wanted to return to Maine and work in a rural area," he said. "The people are very nice. You can really get close to the people and get to know them well."

Finley grew up in Sherrill, N.Y., and his wife, Margie, is from Jackman. Like the DeCarolis, the Finleys also wanted to live and work in Maine.

"I was looking for a rural practice," Dr. Finley said. "I grew up in a small town and my grandfather was a family practitioner. In a small town like this you can do things like make house calls."

The doctors said they are settling into their new practice and are also fielding questions about osteopathic medicine.

This is the first time the health center has hired osteopathic staff doctors.

"The training is the same as an M.D.'s to a point--in terms of medical training, drugs, surgery and all the regular medical practices," DeCarolis said. "But in addition to that doctors of osteopathic medicine are trained to do some manipulative

Greenwood holds yards sale

By WENDY HANSCOM

It's high season for yard sales and townfathers in Greenwood are trying to unload a few choice items--and some white elephants.

They're bidding out 18 tax-lien-acquired properties, including some shoreland, a few boggy unbuildable acres and a large woodlot.

The parcels range in size from .1 acres lots on both South and Hicks ponds, to a 140-acre uncut woodlot near Lake View Road. One parcel, on the Gore Road on North Pond, even has a camp in good condition on it.

The properties became town-owned after at least three tax liens had been placed on them, according to Selectman Marie Bartlett.

Only a few of the lots could be built on, Bartlett said. The others are either too small or too boggy for construction, she said.

The parcels were put out to bid by selectmen two weeks ago. But bidders shouldn't expect to walk away with the bargain of a lifetime.

"No one's going to get a steal," Bartlett said. "Not at the expense of the taxpayers. The selectmen felt it was time to turn the properties into tax dollars. We hope to get near fair market value. We also feel the town shouldn't be in the real estate business. We'd like to see houses built on the lots that can support them and generating tax dollars instead of just sitting there."

The selectmen's assessment of the properties range from $300 for a .8 acre lot on the Little Androscoggin River to $53,200 for the property with a camp.

The selectmen have hired Heywood Sawyer of Greenwood to appraise the properties for fair market value, she said.

Selectmen have reserved the right to refuse any or all bids, Bartlett said. Successful bidders will get quit claim deeds from the town.

Funds from the sale will go into the town's surplus account.

Selectmen would like to see a portion of any money raised go toward buying a new plow truck, Bartlett said.

Bidders have until Aug. 31 to submit bids.

Grafton hikers' cars pilfered

By WENDY HANSCOM

Burglars smashed windows in eight vehicles parked overnight Saturday in Grafton Notch State Park.

The cars were parked in an Appalachian Trail parking lot, according to Oxford County Deputy Scott St. John.

"They broke various windows in the cars--either vent windows, or driver or passenger front windows--in order to unlock the vehicles," St. John said.

"They seemed to be looking for money," he said. "They rifled through belongings but left behind some big-ticket items like camping gear and tents."

Only one vehicle-owner came out of the woods and into the parking lot while St. John was there, he said, so he could not list missing items. He left notes on the other vehicles' windows asking the owners to contact him with information on anything stolen.

This is the second time this summer cars parked in the notch have been broken into, he said. Police have no suspects, he said, but are investigating a few leads.

SAD44 Board approves draft home-schooling policy

By WENDY HANSCOM

The SAD44 School Board unanimously approved the first reading Monday evening of the district's new home-schooling policy.

The policy includes the following provisions:

- home-schooled elementary age students may participate in intramural sports.
- home-schooled middle school and high school students would not be allowed to play interscholastic sports.
- students taught at home may use school supplies including texts, audio visual materials and library books, and participate in field trips, assemblies and academically-related fairs.

- home-schooled students will not be eligible for special education services provided by SAD44.

- home-schooled students enrolling in Telstar High School may receive up to two credits from home instruction toward a Telstar diploma.

At Monday night's board meeting, Andover director Sid Pew said he objected to excluding home-schooled students from middle and high school sports.

"They primary reason is because we operation on a merit system," said Policy Committee chairman Ray Harrington. "It stimulates the athlete to produce academically as well as in sports. With home-schooled children, it would be very difficult to apply the same type of monitoring."

"I don't think a home-schooled student's teacher would give a student an 'A' so they could play in on any sports team," Pew said.

Andover Director Brad Thibodeau suggested that Telstar teachers be asked to evaluate home-schooled students' work periodically to see if it met eligibility requirements.

Superintendent Ronald Jenkins said the district had no legal right to ask home-schooled students to allow a review of their academic progress. Home-schooled students answer to the state, he said.

Jenkins added that requiring Telstar teachers to put in additional instruction time reviewing the work might require paying them an additional fee.

Clarification was also called for on why home-school students enrolling or re-entering Telstar High School would only be given two credits.

Jenkins said the same policy applied to students taking high school correspondent courses and then coming to Telstar.

"The home-schooling teacher declares that the student has met graduation requirements," Jenkins said. "Most colleges now accept home-schooled students' portfolios. If they wanted a Telstar High School diploma they could attend Telstar High School and take the 20 credits required. They also have other options such as a GED diploma. Until you're 21 you are entitled to a free public education."

Ultimately the board voted unanimously to approve the first reading of the policy. It becomes policy when the second reading is approved. That reading is scheduled for the next board meeting on Sept. 13.

In other business at Monday's meeting, the directors awarded the district's milk bid to H.P. Hood.

Business Manager Bruce Powell said last year students drank roughly 13,000 units (half-pints) of homogenized milk, 75,000 units of low-fat white milk, 111,000 units of chocolate milk and 48,000 units of orange juice.

Powell said the price of white milk will probably go up from 25 cents to 30 cents. Chocolate milk will stay at 30 cents, he said.

The board also appointed Constantine Crandell as special education Crescent Park School composite room teacher.

Board members also agreed to reinstate the middle school cross-country running program.

The program was cut during the budget process. Middle school Principal Bruce Bell said money to fund the account will come out of his administrator's discretionary account.

The program will cost roughly $562 plus some travel expenses, Bell said.

Directors absent Monday night included Merton Brown, Debra Dohman and Jane Rolfe of Bethel, and Margaret Hand of Woodstock.

Amy Chapman attended her first meeting as Greenwood's new director. She replaces Marjorie Kessler.

CLOSED--The Mayville Tavern is closed, but efforts are underway to reopen it under new management. The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce has a Business After Hours scheduled at the Mayville next month.

Flynn

If the partners are successful in recovering money from the bank, Galovic said, they will use part of it to pay off local merchants and tradespeople who are still owed money by the restaurant.

A trail of fraud and deception

At the Rostay Inn, Flynn is accused of using his father's American Express credit card to obtain $35,000 in cash advances.

According to the warrant, Flynn convinced the inn's part-owner Fidelis Taylor to process the credit slips and then advance him the money--claiming this was a normal business procedure.

The credit account is now $35,000 overdrawn, the warrant claims, and American Express has said if it cannot get satisfaction from the Flynn's it will go after the Rostay.

Taylor refused to comment on the matter, referring questions to her lawyer. Calls to the lawyer were not returned.

The warrant also accuses Flynn of theft by deception for earlier attempts to allegedly defraud the Barker Mountain Development Corporation of $130,000. The corporation was the land developer for the Barker Brook Condominiums, located behind Coombs Village in Newry.

According to Nancy Martin, who was president of the corporation, Flynn altered a letter intended to help win him release from the federal half-way house, then represented the letter as a binding employment contract for 1987 and 1988.

Before litigation was complete, BMDC was forced to spend more than $60,000 in legal fees.

Flynn was also involved in at least two local enterprises not mentioned in the warrant--the Bottle &

Bag gourmet food shop and RheaLu's China Gem. No criminal activity has been implied in regard to either these businesses.

RheaLu's has apparently developed into a successful business. Owner Rhea Gibbs said, "In my business dealings, John did well by me. As a friend of John Flynn's it's not for me to see through others' allegations, but to see John through this time."

But across the street from RheaLu's, the Bottle & Bag remains incomplete nearly a year after its planned opening.

The would-be gourmet food shop is being developed by Dr. Elaine Pitkin of Shrewsbury, Mass.

Dr. Pitkin did not return repeated phone messages regarding the project, but Ed Kaiser, of Kaiser Homes in Oxford (which provided the modular units for the shop), said the project stalled when an initial financing deal that Flynn claimed to be setting up fell through.

Kaiser said it was his understanding that another arrangement is being worked out for the business through the federal Small Business Administration. Flynn was also involved in the short-lived Black Dog Inn project, which was proposed for development on the land behind the Mayville Tavern.

That land is also owned by the Grants, and the project was withdrawn from Planning Board consideration when the Grants wrote to inform the board that the developers did not have the "land purchase contract with the Mayville Tavern," which their application claimed.

Flynn has also been charged with theft by deception, insurance fraud and bank fraud in regard to dealings with the Emmons Family Trust/Puddles Restaurant of Little Cranbury Island, near Bar Harbor.

The case against John P. Flynn Jr.

The following are excerpts from the warrant for John Flynn's arrest for parole violation. "The probationer" is Flynn.

1. Threats to Violence.

The probationer threatened to shoot Sandy MacGregor, a partner at Mayville Tavern.

2. Forgery.

While a shareholder and general manager at Mayville Tavern from April 17, 1992 until May 1993, the probationer, who was not a signatory of the corporate bank accounts, forged both Alexander MacGregor's and Philippe See's names, both duly authorized signatories, to various checks. Both MacGregor and See and every other shareholder will testify that they never gave Flynn permission to do this.

3. Theft by Deception.

In October of 1986, the probationer committed theft by deception by telling his prospective employer that he needed $1,000 to help get financing for the Barker Mountain Development Project. The probationer represented that the money would be used to set up a meeting with a financial backer. His employer, Barker Mountain Development Corporation (BMDC), later discovered that the probationer never gave this money to the financial backer and never returned it to BMDC.

4. Theft by Deception.

Beginning in October of 1986, until the conclusion of litigation, the probationer attempted to defraud BMDC of $130,000 by falsely proclaiming that he had a contract with BMDC to work as project director for the years of 1987 and 1988, at the fixed salary of $65,000 per year. The probationer had convinced the president of BMDC to write a letter regarding employment with their company upon his release from a halfway house. He told the president what to write, send it to him and he would present it to the "Judge" to win an early release. The president thought that she was helping him with the letter, and she was surprised when it was returned with a notation: "Accepted and Agreed Upon" signed by the probationer. When the president told him the letter was not meant to be a contract, the probationer sued the BMDC for $130,000 in lost wages for 1987 and 1988. After litigation that cost BMDC $60,000, a state court judge ruled in favor of BMDC.

5. Theft by Deception.

In or about April 1992, the probationer formed a corporation with six other individuals, most of whom were fellow ski patrollers at Sunday River Ski Resort, in order to establish and operate a restaurant, Mayville Tavern, in Bethel. The probationer never informed his partners in Mayville Tavern, Inc. that he had a felony conviction for being a co-conspirator in a conspiracy, which defrauded many investors of $6.4 million. In July 1992, the probationer was forced to disclose some details because one of the original partners had discovered the conviction and notified the others. The probationer... created the illusion that he had a minimal role in the conspiracy and his only involvement was as an attorney representing co-conspirators who had embezzled. At the time of this revelation, most of the partners had contributed most of their initial fee of $10,000 and work had already begun at converting an old barn into a restaurant. Because Flynn had told them in the very beginning that he had owned and operated a successful restaurant in Bar Harbor (Puddles) and sold it for a big profit, the partners decided to keep the project going.

The probationer had picked his partners well--all individuals who had other jobs and occupations and, therefore, were not interested in the day-to-day operation of the restaurant. The probationer was, therefore, the logical choice to be general manager. He kept the books and would not let anyone else see them. It has now been discovered, after he lost his shares, that he was not paying bills, especially withholding taxes and sales taxes.

In addition, the partners have discovered that he forged checks, signing the corporate signatories names as well as his own name on several occasions, even though he did not have signatory power. He also used the corporate accounts to launder money which he obtained illegally from other frauds. He never paid rent of $500 per month which had been agreed on, nor his cable television or any other utilities.

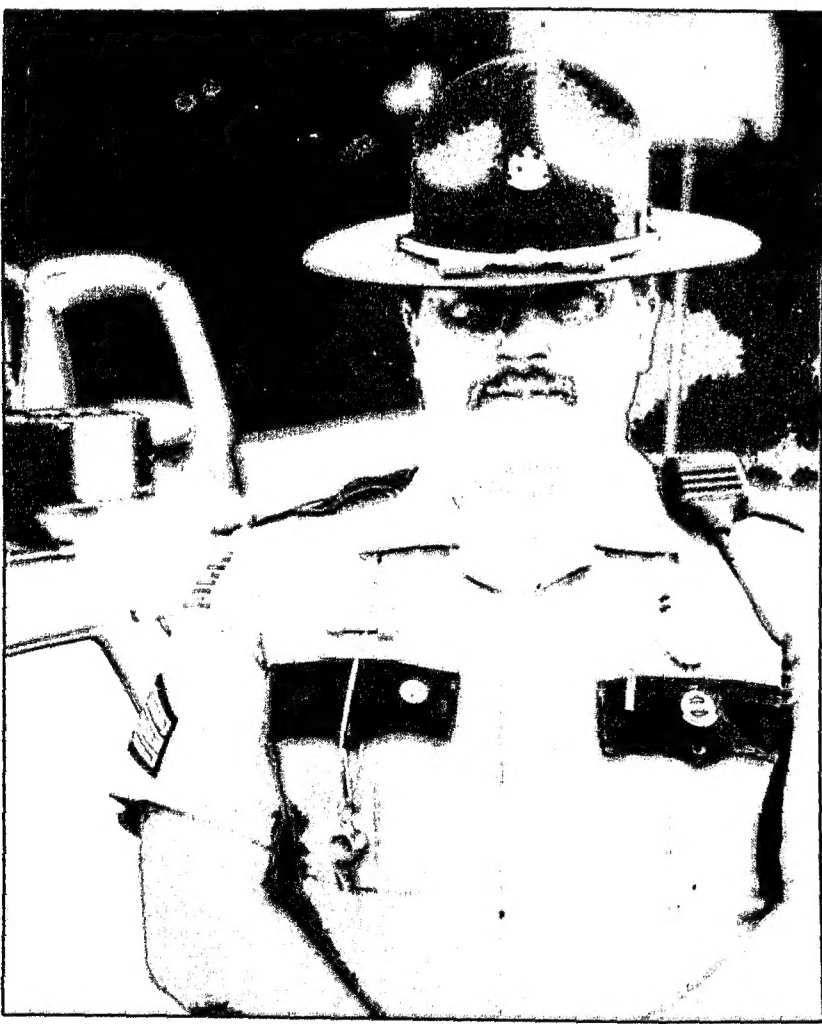

At this point, it appears as though Mayville Tavern will not survive because of the staggering debt including $14,000 in unpaid withholding taxes and $14,000 in sales taxes.

If this corporation does not survive, the following is a list of the partners and their approximate losses: Philippe See, $50,000; Mary Schultz, $35,000; Dave Lemieux, $18,400; Bruce Scott, $13,800; Sandy MacGregor, $11,000; Gary Galovic, $13,500; Greg Crispell, $10,000; John Edmonds, $10,000.

8. Wire Fraud.

In or about August and September of 1992, the probationer by means of deceit, convinced the part-owner of the Rostay Motor Inn in Bethel, Fidelis Taylor, to submit for payment false bills to American Express for reimbursement. He told her that he would use his father's American Express Card which his father had given him permission to use. Ms. Taylor would imprint an American Express Credit Card Slip with John P. Flynn Sr.'s card and enter the amount that the probationer told her. He would sign his own name, which is the same as his father's, except his signature includes Jr. Ms. Taylor would deposit this slip into the motor inn's bank account and then write out a check to the probationer in that amount on the motor inn's checking account. The probationer assured her that this was normal procedure.

According to American Express, they have attempted to get payment from Flynn Sr. who claims that he has no money to pay the balance and that they should collect from Flynn Jr. to whom he gave permission to use the card. Flynn Jr., the probationer, has made some payments while other payment attempts were with checks that bounced. The account is now $35,000 in arrears. American Express has informed this office that if they cannot get satisfaction from either Flynn's, they will go after the Rostay Motor Inn.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the 28th annual meeting of the Bethel Historical Society will be held on Thursday, Sept. 2, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

A 6:30 potluck supper will precede the meeting. Anyone attending the potluck supper is asked to bring a main dish, salad or dessert. Following the supper, the business meeting will begin at 7:30. Election of officers and trustees will be held and the Marjorie MacArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award will be presented to an outstanding volunteer. Featured speaker for the evening will be Dr. Maurice M. Whitten, retired University of Southern Maine chemistry professor, who will speak on science and technology during the Civil War. Anyone interested in attending the annual meeting is cordially invited to do so.

A garden reception was held in the back yard of the Dr. Moses Mason House on Aug. 21 to welcome the Governor General Lyttleton T. Harris IV and wife Venita of the Order of Founders and Patriots who were visiting Maine from Texas.

Maine Founders and Patriots Governor Stephen T. Seames officially welcomed the Governor General to Maine and he made a very gracious response. More than 100 attended the reception, representing a variety of patriotic and historical organizations.

medicine; something similar to chiropractors with some differences."

"In addition to standard medical practices, it's more of a structural medicine to allow better function," Finley added.

"Osteopathic medicine also leans more toward family medicine," DeCarolis said. "There's a lot more encouragement of preventive family medicine. The approach is a little more holistic, but grounded in standard medicine."

Family following

Both doctors said they'd like to see the health center be used for more than emergency medicine.

"A lot of people see this as an emergency room," DeCarolis said, "but we can provide long-term care. We'd like to build some loyalties in the town and establish relationships with our patients. We want to be guides through the health care system."

DeCarolis said the health center can provide primary care and recommend any specialists as needed.

"We'd like to establish one provider per family as much as possible," Finley said. "For the most part everyone should see the same provider every time they come here. It's good continuity of care. I think people in the town want that."

pond, which gives the Fire Department adequate access to a water supply.

Conkright, who is also the town's road commissioner, said Glover's proposal to cut roughly eight feet off the top of a crest in the Douglass road; and add fill on both sides of the hummock will provide better visibility.

Glover plans to eventually build another road which would intersect at the Douglass Road crest.

Developers presented the road plan last Wednesday night. Sandstrom said he wanted Road Commissioner Conkright, who did not attend the meeting, to comment on the plan before the board considered approval of the renewal.

The Planning Board had also asked for certification of a line of credit and posting a performance bond with Newry. The money would be set aside to pay for any environmental problems created by the project.

Glover representatives said they would submit a $15,000 performance bond through Oxford Bank and Trust at the board's next meeting.

Marijuana plants seized near Perry Road

By WENDY HANSCOM

A Maine Drug Enforcement Agency agent arrested a Perry Road resident Sunday afternoon for growing marijuana.

The plants were growing around the residence of Joseph E. Santos, 37, of Bethel, according to Maine DEA agent Tony Milligan. Santos was arrested for trafficking in a schedule Z drug (marijuana).

"We found 32 roughly four-foot high marijuana plants," Milligan said. "When we got there he had pulled them up and put them in a bucket. He was in the process of transplanting them. We seized the marijuana and searched his residence. We found more marijuana drying in his residence, and other drug-related evidence."

Milligan said Santos will be arraigned in Rumford District Court on Oct. 5. If convicted of the charges, Santos faces a maximum one-year jail sentence and $2,000 fine.

East Stoneham

By ELEANOR NELSON

Carol and Les Davis from Sattley, Calif., have been visiting with Geneva and Bob Tripp a few days and called on other relatives in the area. They left on Aug. 18 to return to their home in California.

Chris Gregson spent a few days the past week with Craig Millett and family in Augusta.

Jean MacKenzie came home from the Stephens Memorial Hospital on the 18th, and I'm sure she would appreciate cards and calls. Hope you're feeling better now, Jean.

One day last week I had the pleasure to visit Perham's at West Paris. I had never been there before and found it to be very interesting and informational, and was surprised to see stones from Sugar Hill, Stoneham. One would be surprised to know of the many mines there are around this area and of the beautiful stones and gems that are brought out of them. They have four quarries within 10 miles of their shop and one can visit them at no charge.

This last weekend Eric Nelson went to a friend's camp at Aziscoos Lake and when he came home he was really excited in telling about the nine (yes, I said nine) bears at the Errol dump at dusk one night. There was a line of cars parked and people had walked down to see the bears eating garbage at the dump. It must have been quite a sight. Some were really big.

Dot Bell from Sweden visited Gladys Kilgore one day last week.

Leslie Dean, Joyce Gouin and Beth Jones were among the eight members of Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-1865 from Maine who went to the National Convention in Oklahoma City, Okla. They reported a good time and good convention and are planning on next year's meeting already.

Mr. and Mrs. Honores Thompson and daughter Rose from Lewiston called on Gladys Kilgore one day last week.

Jeanette Wentworth and Robert Rugg were united in marriage on Saturday, Aug. 14. A reception was held at the Rugg home in Albany. I didn't attend but heard that it was a real fun and festive time in spite of the heavy rain.

On Aug. 17, I attended a baby shower for Wanda Ryerson held at the home of Marilyn Jones. This was well attended and she got many lovely gifts for the little one. He is gaining every day and will soon be home from the hospital in Portland.

Upton

Margaret Mitchell and Tex Fogwill held their 9th Annual Homecoming on Sunday, Aug. 15, with 34 people in attendance. Guests included: Tillie Grundy, Sebago Lake and Venice, Fla.; John and Anne Rizzo of Texas and Pennsylvania; Felicia Griffin and son Walter of Westbrook; Polly Raymond of So. Portland; Muriel Fiedler of Venice, Fla.; her daughter and son-in-law Carl and Muriel Scott of Boothbay Harbor; Judy, Philip and Glen Williams and Jerry Conley of So. Portland; Ethel Dow of Old Orchard Beach, Elaine Presby, Kris and Nathan Jonsson of Gorham; from Lebanon, N.H.: Judy Fedchenko, Andrea Burnham, John Daniels, Wendy Trotter and Jim, Christine and Sara, Joel and Robin Fedchenko, Miranda and Paul. Present also were: Richard and Jackie Donavon, Cindy and Scott Fredrick, Ashley and Alex. Laura Marles of Biddeford completed the party, which was enjoyed by all under clear skies.

Ed and Mary White of Parkville, Mo., have been visiting Dean and Pam Merchant and enjoying the pleasures of the most northeastern state of our great country, including its beautiful blueberries.

Lucille Largesse reported that the publisher of the "Bigger and Better Ladies' Aid Cookbook" was able to fit in all of the pictures which had been submitted. These pictures are of places and people in and around Upton, both modern and historic. They will be ready by Aug. 28 at the Fair.

The Fair will feature a secondhand table, fancy work table and food table. Contributions to these are welcome—also for the potluck supper.

Joe, Penny, Neil and Jennie Bernier of Lovell spent the weekend in Upton. They visited the eagle site Saturday and were rewarded with a view of close flights. Sunday, they went to Tyler Cove along with the Browns, Andre Berniers of Bethel, Stuart Abbotts of E. Sumner and Sherrie Abbott's sister and family of Buckfield.

Jennie Bernier spent several days with Mamere Bernier at Heritage Farm, returning home on Wednesday.

The September meeting of the Newry Community Church Ladies Circle will be at Louise Tetley's residence at 12:30 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 8.

FLOOD FUNDRAISING CARNIVAL—Several local youngsters decided to hold a fundraising carnival to help flood victims in the Midwest. Mariah and Katrina Boelsma, along with Malinda, Emily and Abigail Gilbert, sold lemonade, iced tea and baked goods Saturday at the Bethel Area Health Center parking lot, next to the Farmers Market. They also had a dart game, chicken toss and face painting. Food and prizes were donated by the Mt. View Store, Bethel IGA, Preb's Pharmacy, True North Adventureware and the Bethel Citizen. The girls raised $56.35 which was sent to the American Red Cross rural flood relief program. The amount will be doubled by a matching grant from the Monsanto Agricultural Group, for a total of $112.70 going to the flood relief program.

Roger Hanscom celebrated his birthday at the Rumford Community House Health Center last week. Louise Tetley and I went to wish him health and good cheer.

My good neighbors are at it again. Although "Good Neighbor Day" is not until Sept. 14, all kinds of garden stuff is coming my way. God, am I lucky. Thank you all and God Bless.

Norman and Eleanor Davis hosted a lobster and clam feast recently at their home. Those attending were: Wendy and Brian Hanscom, Jay, Adam, Eric and Kelsie of Newry; Rose and Kenneth Davis of Mexico; Freda and Leslie Robinson and Amy of Newry; Roger and Nancy Corson of Avon. Guests of honor were Warren Hunter (Eleanor's brother) and wife Ann from Wichita Falls, Texas, who spent two weeks with Eleanor and Norman Davis recently, and while there, they all took a six-day trip to Nova Scotia and had a great time.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Bea Lowell, Doris Parent, Eleanor Davis and Olive Anderson, members of the "Newry Bowling Gang," bowled at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, recently. Of the "Lefties" Karlene was high on the triples and singles with one string of 106. Of the "Righties" Doris was high on the triples and Eleanor high on the singles. Karlene had two strikes and four spares; Betsy had one strike and five spares; Gil had two strikes and two spares; Bea, Olive, Louise and Eleanor each had one spare; Doris had three spares.

Thursday, the "Gang Members" went to The Balsams Grand Resort Hotel for their delicious buffet luncheon. Sue Cross and her mother-in-law Jan Cross joined them. Attending were: Karlene, Betsy, Gil, Louise, Bea, Doris, Olive, Irene, Eleanor, Sue and Jan. After lunch, they toured the grounds and admired the beautiful flower gardens, shopped at the gift shops and dress shop and enjoyed the display of stuffed wild birds, etc. On the way home they stopped at the Little Indian Gift Shop and the Trading Post in Upton.

Happy Birthday to Sue Wight and wee Willie Montgomery. Also, Happy Birthday to Ras Bachelder, who is maybe 66-67-68 or 69...who knows...all I know is that he is pretty tricky when it comes to his birthday. All I know is that he is older than his wife Karlene, period. Ha, Ha!

West Bethel

Nancy Martens, of Sparrowhawk Mountain, had members of her family visiting for the week. Deva, her mom and Sandra, her sister came up from Quincy, Mass. Another sister, Donna, arrived with her grandson Eric. They both are from Billerica, Mass. They all had a wonderful time just relaxing and enjoying the fresh mountain air. They all wished that brother Alfred and his wife Dawn could have come up from Connecticut.

The Locke Mills Union Church Blueberry Festival went very well this year.

The Ladies Circle met on Wednesday with nine ladies present.

Lorraine Mills has been busy this last week taking care of Rusty Hughes, a seven-year-old boy. Rusty's mom needed someone to watch him while her older son was away at camp. Rusty and his family belong to the same church as Lorraine. Lorraine enjoyed Rusty's company and kept him quite busy doing things together. Rusty enjoyed going to the Greenwood beach most every day and he met many new friends.

Sunrise comes later, now, and dusk creeps over the hills earlier in the evening. The year has turned and summer is walking downhill toward autumn.

Goldenrod is showing impatient yellow.

Wild carrot frills the fence rows. Its bright green foliage is almost the color of the garden carrot. The flower is called Queen Ann's lace. It's really a weed but carries the name of a queen. I have wondered which Ann there were so many. But they all wore lace, I'm sure, and the best of their time.

I presume that most people who feed birds have squirrels. I do and have studied their habits a lot. Squirrels are tough and rugged. The young are trained by their mother. She often nudges them, when very little, out onto a line, like it or not. They may fall but they withstand a tumble that would crush many other creatures. For a couple of years Mother has had her family in my duck house. I saw her remove them from the house carrying each, as a mother cat carries her kitten.

Later, sure enough they came to my feeders. I saw one walk fine wire, topple and fall to the ground. It rolled, got up, dashed for the tree and tried again.

Watch a squirrel use its tail. It may swish that brush back and forth for balance as it walks a rope, or it may wrap up in it, as a fur coat, when its cold.

One can record their sounds, from chattering for different events, from annoyance to anger. I have watched them at play and at problem solving. They watch patiently and quietly trying to find a way to get to a Sally Holt and daughter Mary took me to Gorham to visit my friend Sylvia Luxton. Then on the way home I stopped to visit another friend at the Paradise Home in Gray. Doris lived here many years on Hayes Hill. She is a retired teacher. Her four boys were pupils of mine.

Katie Tamminen is at Market Square Home at this time.

Rena Curtis and several others of the family have returned from Spencer, Ohio where they had been for a week to attend the 25th anniversary party of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Curtis. They had an interesting visit to the Ford Plant, where Kenneth works.

The Historical Society has a collection of classics in the museum. The museum also has a modest amount of costume jewelry. What do you collect and show others? Larry Billings has given the historical museum a tool. The Historical Society points out that William Carlos Williams ends one poem by saying, "I did my best." Let's hope we can all echo that sentiment often. Dylan Thomas once wrote that "Time has ticked a heaven around the stars." The annual picnic of the Woodstock Historical Society was held at the Conservation Camp. Nancy Willard emphasized the school was in transition after state cutbacks. The auction that day was successful. The Historical Society chose a nominating committee. Requests for funds from other groups were considered and generally tabled. The program for the September meeting of the Woodstock Historical Society will be a film on "The Expedition of Lewis and Clark" arranged for by Ray Burnham.

Franklin Grange 124 met for Men's Night on Monday, Aug. 16 with 38 present. The following filled the officers chairs: master, Earl Andrews; overseer, Harry Boyer; lecturer, Russell Yates; chaplain, Roy Day; steward, Lewis Marcotte; A.S., Gordon Abbott; L.A.S., Peggy Blake; gate keeper, Robert Day; Ceres, Loretta Hall; Pomona, Priscilla Jasud; Flora, Flora Abbott; treasurer, Harris Hathaway; secretary, Richard Felt; C.W.A., Anna Swan, Amy Andrews, Marjorie Coleman; executive committee, Raymond Coleman, John Howe, Carl Brooks; pianists, Donald Mason and Althea Fish. The Grange will put on the Senior Citizens dinner on September 2, and the next meeting, September 6, is installation of officers with West Paris joining us and a supper before the meeting. A donation was asked for flood relief from National Grange. It was voted to hold a silent auction for this fund next meeting. The program was as follows: music, Grange band played several selections; opening thought, Russell Yates; Don Mason sang a couple of songs; reading, Russell Yates; skit, Russell Yates and Peggy Blake; reading, Russell Yates; song by all; reading, Russell Yates; Don Mason played the saxophone and Althea Fish played the piano; Harry Boyer sang several songs; reading, Russell Yates; quiz, Russell Yates; closing thought, Russell Yates. Several people spoke. Anna Swan thanked everyone for sending her to Lecturers Conference. She had a marvelous time.

The Hoovers returned home to New York on Saturday after visiting relatives for a week.

The Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, Sept. 2 at the Grange Hall. Franklin Grange will put on the dinner and Anna Swan the program.

We've been busy as usual this past week. We've had lots of garden produce to take care of and feel that we are very lucky to have it. I have done lots of watering, and without that watering our gardens would have amounted to nothing. We have shared some of that garden produce with others as we don't have use for all of it. We are having problems with our tomatoes. There are lots of tomatoes on the plants, but many have had dry rot on the under side of them as they ripen. I never had this problem with tomatoes before, so don't know what to blame it on.

As well as helping take care of the lawn and all the garden produce, Peggy has taken on a new venture. She is running a trapping line without a license and has already caught three mice. They seem to like Teddy saltless peanut butter real well. If their hides were worth something, Peggy would really be in the moneyed class.

Tuesday morning, Peggy and I both had appointments down street to have blood tests. Then Peggy had to go down later to see her doctor. Sister Laura came down and I helped her pick string beans. We helped her snip and cut up the string beans so they were ready for her to wash and freeze.

Wednesday morning, Peggy and I made an early morning call on Richard and Barbara Felt. We found them up and going strong as usual. That afternoon we visited our sister Viva at Victorian Villa Boarding Home in Canton. We found her about the same as usual, but she seems to fall quite easily now. We did take her outside for a walk, but Peggy insisted on hanging onto her so that she wouldn't fall again. They don't seem to have much supervision at that boarding home and are allowed to go and come as they please, which is not good for someone with Viva's problems. We are afraid that she will get outside and fall, possibly breaking some bones.

Peggy went down street on Thursday morning to get needed groceries and to do other errands. We decided to give strawberry jam as gifts at Monday's Grange. Our visitors for the day were Peggy's middle daughter, Kaye Blossley and her husband Otto. They have been vacationing in Maine but will soon be going on to Michigan to visit relatives and return to Florida. Priscilla Jasud from Rumford was also a caller.

Bertha Benoit called on us Friday evening. We had picked beans that day. We canned 24 pints of them and had some extras that we gave to Bertha.

Peggy and I attended Sudbury Canada Days on Saturday at the Dr. Moses Mason House in Bethel. I had been invited to come speak one of my pieces on the program and I had accepted. They served a delicious baked bean supper with a choice of large or small beans and plenty of salads to go with them. The dessert consisted of a large variety of pies. The beans were delicious and plentiful and so were the salads. Our suppers were free since I was there to help with the program.

Sunday forenoon, I worked in the garden as I had some weeds that needed my undivided attention. They were taking water that garden crops needed. Sunday afternoon, we went to the home of Loretta and Emerson Merrill in West Bethel, but found nobody home. Then we backtracked to Bethel and on up Sunday River where we visited with Bryce and Barbara Yates, also Kaye and Otto Blossley. Kaye and Otto have decided to leave Maine on Aug. 23 and will go to Michigan where they will spend time with some of Otto's family before leaving for their home in Eustis, Florida.

The Richard Felt Orchestra will be furnishing the music for the dance at Locke Mills Town Hall on Aug. 28.

To all Grangers: there will be a joint installation of the newly-elected officers of Franklin and West Paris Granges at Franklin Grange Hall, Sept. 6. Wayne Sherman and installing team will do the installation. There will be a 6:30 supper preceding the meeting.

Oxford Pomona Grange officers will be installed at Pleasant Pond Grange in West Sumner on Sept. 7. Gordon Gartley and installing team will do the installing. There will be a 6:30 potluck supper preceding the meeting.

Good morning to you all as I start my weekly news on this 17th day of August. It is dark and cloudy here and God only knows how I wish it could rain. It is very dry here and my rain barrels are running low.

Peggy went down street on Thursday morning to get needed groceries and to do other errands. We decided to give strawberry jam as gifts at Monday's Grange. Our visitors for the day were Peggy's middle daughter, Kaye Blossley and her husband Otto. They have been vacationing in Maine but will soon be going on to Michigan to visit relatives and return to Florida. Priscilla Jasud from Rumford was also a caller.

Savings Bank earns sixth five-star rating

Bethel Savings Bank FSB has been awarded Bauer financial reports' five-star rating. This is the sixth consecutive quarter that Bethel Savings Bank FSB has earned this nationally recognized award ranking it superior for safety, strength and performance.

The rating is based on the analysis of Dec. 31, 1992 financial data as filed with federal regulators.

A five-star rating, for the safest savings associations in the country, indicates that Bethel Savings Bank FSB's tangible capital exceeds 6.75 percent of tangible assets, its risk-based capital ratio exceeds 10.0 percent, that there are no excessive delinquencies or repossessed assets and that association was profitable for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1992. For comparison purposes, the tangible capital level required for Bauer's five-star rating is four times that required by federal regulators.

"Bethel Savings Bank FSB has displayed uninterrupted excellence in banking. It is a well capitalized savings association that comes highly recommended. The community of Bethel Savings Bank FSB's customers and neighbors should be particularly proud of its continued ability to merit our highest rating, five-stars," said Paul A. Bauer, the research firm president.

News from the
The Bethel Library

Many thanks to all who made "Summer Theatre" last week a success: Gail Sysko, director; Christine MacDermott of Camp Sunday River, co-director; Nancy Hansen, planning and publicity; and to all the children and their parents for being great performers/supporters. Thanks also to Stan Howe who was willing to let us stage the production at the Historical Society, although the actors chose, in the end, to stay on familiar library ground.

The play this year was "The Crowded Cottage" by Eva Jacobs. About two dozen children, ages 7-12 took part in the four-scene play. This was a much more ambitious undertaking than in years past, and represents a wonderful spirit of volunteer community effort.

The field trip to the new Children's Museum of Maine took place on Aug. 23. In next week's Citizen there will be details of that exciting wrap-up of the library's summer events.

USDA - Forest Service
White Mountain National Forest
Evans Notch Ranger District
On August 18, 1993, District Ranger Rolly Ortegón signed a decision to proceed with the relocation of a snowmobile trail in the vicinity of Pine Mountain in the Town of Stoneham, Oxford County, Maine. The project involves clearing a twelve foot wide corridor and some excavator work to reduce grade in spots. One bridge will be installed. The relocation is necessary to move the trail to higher ground to avoid beaver flowages around Number Eight Pond. The trail will serve as a connector to the Maine ITS 80 trail. The relocation length is approximately two miles.

The decision memo is available upon request from the Evans Notch Ranger District, RR 2, Box 2270, Bethel, ME 04217.

This decision is subject to appeal pursuant to Forest Service regulations 36 CFR Part 217. Appeals must be filed no later than October 4, 1993. Legal Notice of this decision was first published in the Lewiston Sun-Journal, Lewiston, Maine, on August 20, 1993.
